

SELF-COLLECTION

Self-collection is an effective option for cervical screening. It is just as safe and accurate as a test done by a doctor or nurse.

Cervical Screening and Health Education

The Multicultural Centre for Women's Health (MCWH) is offering FREE, in-language health education sessions and on-site cervical screening self-collection for migrant and refugee women, pregnant people and people with a cervix in Metropolitan Melbourne.

Session languages

Health education sessions can be delivered in Mandarin, Cantonese, Vietnamese, Hindi, Arabic or English.

About our staff

Sessions will be delivered by trained Bilingual Health Educators. The on-site cervical screening will be facilitated by a female doctor.

To book a session or for more information

Contact programs@mcwh.com.au or call (03) 9418 0999

SAFE FOR PREGNANCY

Cervical screening is safe during pregnancy and should not be delayed if you are due or overdue for screening.

What to expect

Information about cervical cancer and screening in a community language

Additional information for pregnant people about cervical screening, including why cervical screening is safe in pregnancy and how it can be done comfortably and privately

The option to do a self-collected cervical screening test on-site, with a female doctor present, in a private and safe space

Free refreshments and a goodie bag

MULTICULTURAL CENTRE FOR WOMEN'S HEALTH

Health education sessions are supported by funding from The Cancer Council Victoria.