

Sign up & become a member today!

Multilingual Library and Resource Collection

A specialist library of women's health resources for migrant and refugee communities in languages other than English.

The Multilingual Library is a welcoming place where women across Australia can connect and build life long knowledge and skills for their health and wellbeing.

Visit our library in Collingwood and borrow books

Currently the MCWH office is temporarily closed

Access multilingual health information using the online catalogue

Call 1800 656 421 for health information and how to access services

Sign up to monthly updates on multilingual health resources

Our collection

We have been building our library for over 30 years - and counting! Our resources include:

- women's health and wellbeing,
- migrant and refugee women's experiences,
- health information relevant to living in Australia

Who can use the library

Our library is a free service for all people and services across Australia to use.

You can browse and borrow all the resources we use to support our advocacy, education and training with migrant and refugee women.

MCWH is a national organisation committed to improving migrant and refugee women's health and wellbeing in Australia.

MULTICULTURAL CENTRE FOR
WOMEN'S HEALTH

Frequently asked questions

Where is your library located?

Our Multilingual Library is at the Multicultural Centre for Women's Health offices, at Suite 207, 134 Cambridge St, Collingwood Vic 3066.

What books and reports are available in the library?

The Library has books and reports about:

- Asylum seeker and refugees
- Feminism
- Female Genital Cutting
- Gender equality
- Health promotion
- Homelessness
- Human rights
- Human trafficking
- Intersectionality
- International students
- LGBTIQ health and wellbeing
- Mental health
- Migration
- Migrant & Refugee Women's Health
- Women in the workplace
- Women's health
- Women in prison
- Women's stories and more

What is the online catalogue?

Our online catalogue has resources that you can download online. It also lists the books that we have available in our physical library.

Where can I use the online catalogue?

You can search for specific resources on our online catalogue. Visit <https://www.mcwh.com.au/multilingual-library-catalogue/> for more information.

What can I find on the online catalogue?

The catalogue has information about women's reproductive and sexual health, healthy living, mental health, parenting, safer use of medicines, prevention of violence against women, and more.

You can access multilingual health information in Amharic, Arabic, Bengali, Bosnian, Burmese, Cantonese, Dari, Dinka, English, Farsi, Greek, Hakka, Hazaragi, Hindi, Italian, Karen, Mandarin, Nepali, Oromo, Punjabi, Somali, Tamil, Urdu, Vietnamese and more.

Where do I go for more information and how do I sign up?

For more information about the Multilingual Library or online catalogue, contact Carmela Ieracitano on:

Office phone: (03) 9418 0910

Free call phone number: 1800 656 421

Email: info@mcwh.com.au